

WANT CHANGE ELECT SCOTT MITCHELL

April 15, 2024

As the current Sheriff and former Sheriffs of Ford County, Kansas, we wanted to send a letter supporting Scott Mitchell for Beaver County Sheriff. Scott served the citizens of Ford County from September of 1989 till his retirement in March of 2015. Scott had advanced through the ranks of Patrol Deputy, Sergeant, Lieutenant and Captain in his career with the office.

The leadership and wisdom that come with rising through the ranks within the Sheriffs' Office is very beneficial because the sheriff's office is unlike any law enforcement agency. As Sheriff, Scott will have a good understanding of the details associated with running a Sheriff's Office. With the knowledge and experience that Scott brings to the office of Sheriff, the partnerships with Beaver County and other law enforcement agencies will not only continue but grow stronger.

We believe Scott is highly qualified to be the next Sheriff of Beaver County.

Weekly ramblings of a redneck farmer

By Doug Little

We used to say "The World Is Going To Hell In A Hand basket". Now I am wondering "What The Heck Is Going On In Our Part Of The State."

It has been a wild couple of weeks out in this part of the state and I don't say that in a good way. A double murder in Texas County about two weeks ago started off the events that have transpired. A murder in Woodward a few days ago and then another double murder in Freedom a few days ago, have sane people wondering, What in the world is going on.

Now I wouldn't talk about specifics of an ongoing case if I had information, which I don't. What I am perplexed by is how did we even get here?

Why don't we respect the sanctity of life? What happened in the lives of the people who perpetrated these crimes to make them jump to a conclusion that taking people's lives is ok? That is what I am having trouble with.

Is it a mental health issue? Well you could make the case that anyone who takes another life has a mental health issue.

Was it a life riddled with addiction that clouded their judgement? Well, who knows. Were these crimes of premeditation? Could be, but it is way to early to tell. Were the people who committed these crimes just sinister human beings? Again, way to early to know. The only thing I do know is that lives were cut short without a valid reason.

Now anybody that reads my writings probably knows where I am headed and honestly it is the only direction to head. I don't think you can talk about what happened without talking about the lack of Jesus in our lives as a whole.

Does that mean I think people without a relationship of Jesus are running around committing murder? Obviously not. There are plenty of people who don't believe in Jesus who would never even contemplate killing someone.

However, if we want to have a real discussion about the change in our society we have to talk about the factors that contribute to the downfall of mankind.

I realize that we don't live in the 50's anymore, but we have taken the mother out of the home because it takes two incomes to support a family these days and you are blessed if it only takes the two incomes.

We've forgotten the fathers all together and we have taken God out of everything. By doing so, we are letting others raise our kids and it is a mess.

You can say that, all this is just rants of a conservative pro lifer and you have a little credence believing that, but when an innocent life is snuffed out and the act is celebrated, you can see why adult life is not treasured either.

Maybe the bigger question is can our society make a change? A change or is the only way things will change is when Jesus rides the white horse down on the clouds? We've got to start treasuring life, all kinds and at all stages of life.

I've prayed a lot this past couple of weeks. I've prayed for a hedge of protection from God around the family members left to mourn all of these lost lives.

I've prayed for God's grace, love and mercy to envelope the hurting, but I've also prayed for the other side as well. I've prayed for their families. I've prayed for God to reach the ones involved and soften their hearts.

Finally I've prayed for peace for everyone. That may be the hardest for anyone that is involved to find and yet maybe the most important to grab a hold of.

Psalm 34:18 reads, "The Lord is near to the brokenhearted and saves the crushed in spirit." I wish I had something else to offer the suffering.

Talk to you next week.

Murdock's Minutes...

By Senator Casey Murdock

This week marked the tenth week of session, and much of the week was focused on committee work as we crossed the deadline to advance House bills to the Senate floor. We're also still working to reach a budget agreement for Fiscal Year 2025.

With hundreds of policy ideas passing through the Legislature each year, it is important that we remain committed to implementing sensible solutions that will have a positive impact on our state and citizens. I am happy to report that one measure that was signed into law last year has done just that. House Bill 1590 sought to improve the state's 911 systems and implement Next Generation 911 (NG911) technology across the state. This upgraded technology allows for decreased response times, the ability to better identify caller locations, and helps with coordination between agencies, especially in the rural areas of our state.

The bill also increased the fee for cell phones that have the ability to call 911 from 75 cents to $1.25. It's now been about six months since this legislation became law, and many cell phone bills have gone up the anticipated 50 cents per line, but some Oklahomans have actually seen a decrease on their costs for landlines. Since this bill took effect, all 10 counties that make up Senate District 27 have seen an average of a 100% increase in their revenues. Some of the most notable increases are from the Rogers Mills County Sheriff's (See CASEY, Page 7)
